Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- 2. Claims 1-3, 5, and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hoog et al.

Hoog et al. teach a system for managing energy consumption by equipment at a site (Claims 1, 5 and 6: see col. 5, lines 19-67), the system comprising: a first database including a plurality of characteristics relating to a piece of energy consuming equipment located at the site (Claims 1, 5 and 6: see Figure 1: Performance Tables and Formulas 102); a second database including a plurality of service technicians (Claims 1, 5 and 6: see col. 7, lines 29-35); and a server including software for determining an expected energy consumption profile (Claims 1, 5 and 6: see Figure 1: Central Computer 118), based on the plurality of characteristics relating to the equipment and the site environment (Claims 1, 5 and 6: see col. 7, lines 29-35); wherein the server generates an alert (Claims 1, 5 and 6: see col. 29-35: The Examiner notes that the fax is an alert), if an actual energy consumption exceeds the expected energy consumption (Claims 1, 5 and 6: see col. 7, lines 60-67).

Hoog et al. teach a system wherein the server further compares the actual energy consumption to refrigerant loss data (Claim 2: see col. 7, lines 19-28: The Examiner notes that the difference in actual and standard is equivalent to loss data).

Art Unit: 2857

Hoog et al. teach a system wherein the server generates a work order including the plurality of characteristics relating to the piece of energy consuming equipment (Claim 3: see col. 7, lines 29-59: The Examiner notes that the report is equivalent to a work order, since it describes what the possible problems that should be investigated).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claim 4 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Gasper et al. teach a thin client power management system and method.
